

Showcase bringing together all the vital players in Chelmsford

HAPPY TO BE HERE: Matt Watson, Julian Colman and Josh Hindface representing DBS Data.

SMART: Sam McKenzie, Abi Crafter, Kirsten Harper and Jay Hemming representing VOODOO Creative

PRESENCE: David White, Harry White, Lorraine Garner and Rorie White of Chelmsford Safety Supplies

LISTEN TO US: Nigel Hills and Jason Fenn representing Event Sound & Light

OLD FAVOURITES: Nigel Smith and sales director Peter Symonds representing The Printing Place Ltd

BUSINESSMEN and women from across Essex came together last week for the eighth Chelmsford City Showcase for Business. The event was held at the Hylands Estate on Wednesday and included masterclasses from Baiju Solanki, Mandie Holgate and Graham Clarke.

Around 400 people attended and circulated among the stands where they could find out more about the diverse array of businesses based in the county.

Mike Smith, Chelmsford City Council's organiser of the event, said: "Now firmly established in the business calendar, the eighth Chelmsford City Showcase for Business once again proved highly successful."

"The feedback from exhibitors and delegates has been extremely positive with many already reporting new business opportunities."

"Thanks go to Baiju, Mandie and Graham for their input and delivering great masterclasses."

The sponsor of the business networking lunch was the regional chairman of the Federation of Small Businesses.

David Bell said: "Overall, it was a great event and we were very pleased with the day and the outcome so far."

Speaker Graham Clarke, of BIZphit LLP, added: "Well done on the organisation of the showcase once again. It was successful and I have had loads of positive feedback on the masterclass across email and LinkedIn."

BUILDING A GOOD NAME: Paula Garsden representing Bolt and Heeks Construction

TOP MERCHANDISERS: Emily Hillman and managing director Nicky Crisp representing Impamark

KEEPING IT SAFE: Anthony Miller and Ed Smith representing Oak Park Security

MONEY WISDOM: Joanna Hamblin and Amit Popat representing Rickard Luckin

KEY MAN: Pension specialist Colin McKeaganey representing Citizens Advice Chelmsford

RAPID DELIVERY: Grant Crosby representing Anglia Courier Express

LEARN WITH US:
Louise Nappellano
and Amanda
Sonne represent
Chelmsford
College